Get ready to be inspired as you view clean, renewable energy at work first-hand on Saturday, October 1! The Northeast Sustainable Energy Association (NESEA) invites you to visit sustainable, green homes and buildings throughout New England, including right here in Boston. Last year more than 10,000 people participated in close to 500 tours. See how your neighbors are reducing their carbon footprint and cutting their energy bills through the power of the sun, wind, smart building design, and energy efficient appliances and technologies.
