

DEFEND JOHANY PILAR!

Fight rape culture in the workplace

Since 1998, Johany Pilar has worked at Harvard's Science Center Mail Room. She first reported unwanted advances and physical contact from a co-worker in March of this year. Ever since she complained about sexual harassment, Johany has faced retaliation from managers. She's experienced pressure, unfair treatment and threats.

On September 14, Johany received an unfair written disciplinary warning threatening her with being fired. Johany has never been warned about anything in all her years at Harvard. She has filed a lawsuit with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination (MCAD).

Please come to an action supporting Johany and all those who stand up against gender discrimination, sexual harassment, & for their right to fair and equal treatment on the job!
